IN THIS ISSUE: New Residence for Women - New Administrative Appointments
- Donors to Alumni Fund - Sweet Sixteen - Biology Research
Grant - Redskins Draft Houlton.

Construction has begun on a fourth residence hall for women at St. Norbert College. The hall, which will cost $500,000 and be located on Grant Street between Second and Third Streets, is scheduled for completion in September, 1967.

The structure will be used by women students until a high-rise portion can be added to an existing women's residence. It will then be used by men.

Knight Life

The public relations committee of St. Norbert College has chosen Knight Life as the name of the new magazine which is received by alumni, parents and friends of the college.

Two alumni, Reverend Simeon Adriansen, O. Praem. '57 and Leonard W. Swift '52, selected the same name and will split the prize, each receiving a $50 savings bond.

While there were many variations using the word Knight in the more than 125 entries, the judges felt that Knight Life best fit the purposes of the publication.

Dr. Webb Named VP at St. Norbert First Lay Dean Appointed

The Board of Trustees and the president of St. Norbert College, Very Reverend D. M. Burke, O. Praem., have announced the creation of a new administrative position and the appointment for the first time of a lay dean of the college.

Dr. Neil J. Webb

Dr. Donald B. King

Dr. Neil J. Webb, who has been at St. Norbert since taking his doctorate degree in psychology from Loyola University of Chicago in 1959, was named administrative vice president, the new position.

The new dean is Dr. Donald B. King, who has been serving as assistant to the president of Mt. St. Joseph-on-the-Ohio College in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The appointment of additional lay personnel to administrative positions at St. Norbert follows other recent changes. Last July a new Board of Trustees, comprised principally of laymen and legally empowered to determine policy and government of the college, was established.

An autonomous faculty committee was created a year ago. It meets independently of the administration and is empowered to study and advise in the formation of college policy.

In commenting on the changes, Father Burke cited the Report of the Danforth Commission on "Church Sponsored Higher Education in the United States," published last September, which states that "the church-affiliated college and university must take a more experimental approach to their work . . . they must become problem-oriented, rather than merely imitative of educational patterns laid down by others."

St. Norbert College has grown in quality as the college has grown in size during the past ten years, Father Burke added. "It is our hope," he stated, "that we may strive for distinctive programs not merely for the sake of innovation but more properly to fulfill our purpose and our capacity for being a quality institution. By providing strong academic leadership, men of ideas and conviction in the Danforth sense, we can do justice to our students, our faculty, and the many friends who believe in St. Norbert College and support it so generously."

While at St. Norbert, Dr. Webb has directed three major research projects, the latest of which is a two-year innovation project supported by the U. S. Office of Education. He has published 14 articles and papers in scholarly journals, many of which are research reports on experimental programs in higher education.

Last Fall he organized and participated in a symposium concerning the increased use of students in the educational enterprise during the New York American Psychological Meetings. He holds memberships in several professional and honorary organizations and is included in American Men of Science.

The new dean of the college received his Ph.D. degree in the classics from Princeton University in 1938. He taught at Dartmouth College, Pennsylvania State University and Beloit College before going to Mt. St. Joseph-on-the-Ohio in 1951.

During the summer of 1962 Dr. King was a consultant in classical rhetoric at the University of Nebraska Institute of Curriculum Development. He is the author of two books and several articles in professional journals.

Board of Trustees Expands

Mrs. Fred H. Lindner

The Right Reverend S. M. Killeen, O. Praem., Abbot Chancellor of St. Norbert College, has announced the appointment of a De Pere woman to the college's Board of Trustees.

Named to the Board is Mrs. Fred H. Lindner who has been active in civic affairs as well as in educational circles. The appointment of Mrs. Lindner brings membership on the Board of Trustees to six.

In addition to Mrs. Lindner, Board members are Mrs. Mary Walter, Meyer Cohen, E. L. Everson, Reverend I. M. Gosz, O. Praem., and Reverend Timothy A. Reilley, O. Praem.

A graduate of La Crosse State University, Mrs. Lindner taught two years in the Antigo Public School System. For the past eight years she has been a Confraternity of Christian Doctrine high school teacher at St. Francis parish in De Pere.

Mrs. Lindner is a past president of the Woman's Club of De Pere and chairman of De Pere residential solicitation for United Fund in 1966. Active in Girl Scout work for 15 years, she is presently chairman of public relations on the Lac Baie Girl Scout Council Board.

Father De Leers Seeks Laicization

The Reverend Vincent J. De Leers, O. Praem., dean of St. Norbert College for the past 10 years, has begun the canonical process whereby he can leave the Norbertine Order to work as a layman and eventually be married.

Father De Leers said his request has gone to Rome through the headquarters of the Norbertine Order there.

Father De Leers' statement follows:

"I have begun the process of laicization in order to marry within the church as soon as I am free to do so. The request for exlaustaration from the religious community has already been forwarded to Rome by my religious superior. The second step, complete laicization, will be taken through the bishop of whatever diocese will be my residence at the time of application.

I want to emphasize that my plans should not, in any sense, be interpreted as a rebellion or as a perjorative judgment on the church, the order or the college. It is, quite simply, a personal decision which it seems possible, by the present law and precedent of the church, to implement.

It is not possible to specify final residence or marriage plans since they are, obviously, contingent on job opportunities and the canonical process, respectively.

I am now searching for a position which will give me the opportunity, as a committed, Christian layman, to serve the urban disadvantaged by the exercise of my experience and training as a teacher and college administrator."

Donors to

Alumni Fund of 1966

The following is an accounting, by name and class, of the 1966 Annual Alumni Fund which was established in 1958. The staff of Knight Life sincerely hopes that the list is without error. Should mistakes appear, we would welcome a note from you so that the information can be applied to correct our records.

Annual Alumni Fund

(The figures do not include capital gifts for development purposes.)

1960	$ 2,469.00
1961	$ 5,562.30
1962	$ 9,809.26
1963	$ 7,964.92
1964	$15,463.48
1965	$40,418.94
1966	$26,177.74

In 1967 the Annual Alumni Fund and the Development Fund will be maintained as separate funds. The Annual Alumni Fund will be utilized for off-setting the ever-increasing deficit of current operating expenses which cannot be met with tuition alone. The Annual Alumni Fund has been partially suspended for the past two years because of the alumni involvement in the Anselm Keefe Botany Center Fund for the new science building which will be completed in the fall of 1967. The Development Fund will be utilized for expansion of facilities on campus.

The stature of St. Norbert College is gauged by the posture of its alumni and their relationship with their Alma Mater. The two key indicators of these factors are the total amount in the Annual Alumni Fund and the percentage of participation. It is our fervent hope that our alumni membership will stand up and be counted in the calendar-year 1967.

St. Norbert College is grateful for the confidence which the alumni membership has shown through 1966 contributions and trusts that it will continue to merit your interest and support to increase the stature of your Alma Mater in size and importance.

A Touchy Subject

Some people wouldn't touch John Sutton's research project with a nine-foot pole.

John, a 1965 SNC graduate in his second year of study for a master's degree in zoology at Southern Illinois University, is babysitting five full grown porcupines, or a total of 150,000 quills.

He decided to do a thesis on porcupines because knowledge of their food preferences and overall behavior is somewhat limited.

In order to get his research material, John went to Mountain, Wis., baited his traps with apples and bread and waited. He got the five in a couple of days.

He brought them back to SIU in the trunk of his car and then transferred them to two larger cages in his laboratory office.

"That's when the action started, and when I got my first surprise.
They got a bit violent with each other. The books say they aren't that way," he said.

Things soon quieted down, however, and the animals have become almost friendly, even permitting John to put his hand in the cage and pat their heads. For the moment he is not interested in patting them anyplace else.

The only thing hampering John's investigation right now is that he isn't sure of their sex. Determining the sex of a porcupine, he says, is not a simple affair.

Two St. Norbert Alumni brought their high school basketball teams to the State Catholic tournament at Milwaukee and the squad coached by a third alumnus defeated the number one small school in the state.

Bob Neja '56, Milwaukee Messmer, guided his team to an overall 20-5 record and second place in the state tournament. Don La-Violette '54 was named Fox Valley Catholic Conference and Green Bay Metro Coach of the Year. His Abbot Pennings Squires took fourth place in the state meet.

Mishicot, coached by Clint Peters '56, shared the Peninsula Conference championship and ended its season with a 22-2 record by defeating Wausaukee, voted the number one small school in the state, in the Green Bay Sectional tournament.

Five St. Norbert College alumni have been selected to appear in the annual biographical compilation, "Outstanding Young Men-Women of America."

Alumnae listed are Barb Pharris '61, a teacher at Our Lady of Charity School in Green Bay and Nancy Coppens '64, a former worker for Young Christian Students and now a secretary in Green Bay.

Listed in Outstanding Men are Jim Helein '59, a sales representative for Schering Corporation; Jerry Mullarkey '59, an engineer with Honeywell, Inc.; and Len Wagner '58, a sportswriter for the Green Bay Press-Gazette.

One alumnus wrote the Alumni Office asking that his name be removed from the alumni records because he graduated from another college. Only problem is he forgot to sign his name so we'll have to carry him on the record until he writes again and lets us know who he is.

For the record, anyone who completes a full year at St. Norbert College is added to the alumni rolls.

Bill Scott, St. Norbert freshman who worked the public address microphone for home basketball games, is the son of Ray Scott, television announcer for Green Bay Packer games.

Reverend Anselm M. Keefe, O. Praem., professor emeritus of biology, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Northeastern Wisconsin Chapter of the Retired Officers' Association.

The chairman of St. Norbert's speech department, Dr. Lee Dudek, has been appointed a charter member of the Committee for Northeastern Wisconsin In-School Television.

Dr. Edward J. Williams of the St. Norbert chemistry department has been nominated for the latest edition of "Who's Who in American Science, Physical and Biological Sciences."

One criterion for nomination requires that the nominee be an established research scientist.

A wooden sculpture by William Bohne, art instructor at St. Norbert College, was exhibited in the 53rd Wisconsin Painters and Sculptors annual exhibition in the Milwaukee Art Center.

Sweet Sixteen

Sixteen is the magic number for Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Held of Manitowoc. In February they welcomed Kathryn Ann, their 16th child, to the family.

Ten sisters and five brothers attended the baptism ceremonies which were held at St. Boniface Catholic Church in Manitowoc. With the new baby came the carrying out of a family tradition. She was baptized in her father's baptismal gown which is now 45 years old.

"Mrs. William Held, grandmother of the baby, performs a baptismal day ritual with each grandchild. Before the ceremony she dresses the child in the gown and slip she made 45 years ago for her son, Lawrence," Mrs. Held said.

Sponsors for the baby were a sister, Patricia, 17, and a brother, James, 15.

The couple's oldest child, Christine, 19, is a junior at Holy Family School of Nursing in Manitowoc. Michael, the second oldest, is attending the University of Wisconsin-Manitowoc County Center.

Mealtime for the Helds is like a family banquet with two large tables set up in the kitchen and the usual hustle and bustle that goes with a meal, only a little bit more.

"Upon arriving home from school the girls peel potatoes, set the table and help prepare dinner," Mrs. Held said. "The children all chip in with the work so things usually go smoothly," she added.

Lawrence, who received a bachelor of arts degree in English from SNC in 1947, is a staff manager of the Prudential Insurance Company office at Manitowoc.

Research Grant to Biology Head

Dr. N. J. Flanigan, associate professor and chairman of the biology department at St. Norbert College, has been given a three-year, $61,000 extension of an individual research grant by the Public Health Service of the U. S. Office of Health, Education and Welfare.

The grant will be used by Dr. Flanigan to continue his research on the nervous system of Cetacea, the group of mammals which includes whales, porpoises and dolphins. He has been conducting the study for the past five years.

Besides being useful to neurologists in the study of human disorders such as paralysis, Dr. Flanigan's basic research, which is designed to reveal the detailed structures of the mammal's nervous system, is of interest to the U. S. Navy in the areas of propulsion and echo location.

Dr. Flanigan works cooperatively with the Navy during the summer months, acquiring his material which he later processes and studies at St. Norbert. He conducts his observations at Pacific Missile Command Point Mugu, California. The biologist focuses his studies on the anatomy of the animals while the Navy concentrates its research on their behavioral patterns. "Present research has been limited to the study of the normal anatomy of these rarely available animals," Dr. Flanigan noted. "Continuation of the support will permit experimental studies to be undertaken."

Over the three-year period approximately $47,000 of the grant will be spent for research, with the remaining $14,000 to be used for school administration expense.

A 1940 graduate of St. Norbert College, Dr. Flanigan received his master's and doctoral degrees from the State University of Iowa and has taught in Pennsylvania, Iowa, Nebraska and California before returning to St. Norbert.

The 1967 Homecoming football game is scheduled for October 28 against Northern Michigan University. Plan now to attend.

Mel Nicks, athletic director at St. Norbert, has been honored by the Wisconsin Catholic Interscholastic Athletic Association (WCIAA) as its Man of the Year. The annual award was presented to Nicks before the start of the Wisconsin Catholic high school basketball tournament championship game at the Milwaukee Arena.

The award, this year in the form of a silver bowl, is traditionally bestowed upon a person who, having been associated with the tournament in the past, has continued to distinguish himself in life.

A member of the faculty since 1953, Nicks was director of the Catholic tournament until 1960 when the WCIAA moved the event to Milwaukee.

In 1957, while head football coach, his Green Knight team was undefeated and he was named Catholic Small College Coach of the Year.

During 1965 he authored a "Curriculum for Elementary Physical Education" which is currently used in public and parochial schools throughout the country.

Redskins Draft Houlton

A star defensive tackle and heavyweight wrestler for the Knights, Tim Houlton, has been drafted by the professional football Washington Redskins. Houlton, from Black River Falls, Wisconsin, learned of his selection when he arrived in Lockhaven, Pennsylvania for the NAIA wrestling tournament after a 32 hour bus ride.

A four-year football letterman, the 260 pound Houlton tried wrestling for the first time a year ago and posted a 6-0 record. This season he finished 11-2, with one loss coming in the NAIA tourney and the other to MacMurray College's Bob Kellogg who won the NCAA college division heavyweight championship.

Three other wrestlers on the 1966-67 team posted outstanding records. Chip Gerlach, 177 pounder from Milwaukee, had a 10-1-1 mark, Ron Priebe of Merrill, 130 pounds, was 11-1-1 and Kenosha's Ron Gilles logged 9-3.

This year's squad finished with a 5-3 record in dual competition, finished fourth in the Lawrence University eight-team invitational and last in a quadrangular.

Cagers Post 12-10 Mark

The 1966-67 Green Knight basketball team logged an overall 12-10 record and finished in a tie for second place in the Midlands Conference.

With two freshmen and a sophomore in the starting lineup and a 6-6 freshman as the top reserve, the Norbs averaged 86 points a game throughout the season.

Missing from next year's cast will be guard Ron Brault whose 398 points this season gave him a career total of 1,806 and placed him number one among all-time college scorers and team captain Galen DeNamur who was voted Most Valuable Player for the season.

New Staff Position at SNC

A re-alignment of administrative functions at St. Norbert College will create a new staff position.

The Alumni Office in the Directorate of College Relations and the Industrial Placement Center in the Office of the Registrar will be merged and supervised by a Director of Alumni and Industrial Placement. The keynote of this merger of alumni and industrial placement will evolve around service; service to the student, to the faculty, to the administration, to the alumni and service to the community, government and industry. The position is presently open and any alumnus interested in applying should contact William C. Van Dyk, Director of Development and Public Relations at St. Norbert.

Wayne E. Vander Putten, present Director of Alumni and News Services, will continue to function as Director of News Bureau, and devote full time to the broad area of expanding responsibility when the new staff member is employed.

Ecumenical Theology Department

Greatly increased opportunities in career positions in Catholic theology for laymen, besides the urgent nationwide need for trained catechists at elementary and secondary school levels, has focused attention on St. Norbert's theology department which is designed and ready to meet these needs.

"I believe we are making one of the most serious efforts in the country," L. J. Fedewa, assistant professor of theology, said, referring to the program offered to students majoring in theology.

The department's stress on the historical approach is unique and "is aimed at presenting the student with the historical development of the Christian religion. It puts everything into historical perspective and traces the development of Christianity as a whole, not just as a series of isolated segments," Fedewa continued. "There are no textbooks. We'll be writing the textbooks. Then the students can branch out."

A background in theology is valuable to a student considering further study in the fields of anthropology, psychology, sociology, law, politics, history and most of the other humanities, Fedewa pointed out.

Aside from its course offerings, perhaps the single most striking aspect of the St. Norbert College theology department is the ecumenical nature of its faculty. Included on the staff is a full-time Protestant theologian, a Canadian Baptist doctoral candidate of the University of Iowa. Also, a Jewish Rabbi, who received his Ph.D. degree from Hamburg University, Germany, teaches part time.

Dudley Birder, director of the College's Chamber Singers, was cited by the De Pere Chamber of Commerce for his cultural contributions to the community.

Herbarium Collection

Totals 13,000

Pat Courtney, biology major from Kaukauna, prepares a weed specimen for Fr. Keefe.

A weed is more than just a nuisance to Rev. Anselm Keefe, O. Praem., who presides over the fourth largest herbarium in the state on the second floor of Boyle Hall.

The herbarium, a catalogued collection of more than 13,000 plant specimens, is valued as a teaching and research tool.

"There is no dollar value that can be put on the collection. But it is an endowment and a distinction for the school," Fr. Keefe noted. The herbarium is listed in an international directory of similar institutions which also serves as an index for trading.

Specimens come from many places. Many of Fr. Keefe's have been collected in Florida by a former Wrightstown resident. Others have come from trades with schools in this country and abroad.

The collection is most complete in seed plants from Wisconsin but contains a representative collection of plants around the world. Specimens are included from Mexico, South America, various parts of Europe and other remote spots.

Dried properly, stored correctly and handled with care, the plants can last indefinitely. Some of the St. Norbert College specimens are more than a century old.

At present, Fr. Keefe uses them in plant taxonomy classes for biology majors. Many students have helped identify, prepare and index the plants. More than 2,295 plant specimens are in the herbarium now, classified and mounted by the taxonomy class.

The collection has been an eye-opener for Fr. Keefe since it was started in 1926.

"Plants are on the move," he said. "We still find specimens in our area that we did not know were here."

Space for additional specimens and air conditioned storage quarters for the St. Norbert College herbarium, will be included in the college's new science building which is expected to be ready in September of 1967.

Las Vegas Anyone?

Interested in a weekend in Las Vegas?

Dittmann Tours, which specializes in alumni groups, offers a weekend in Las Vegas for approximately $200 per person.

The figure includes round trip flight from Green Bay, three days and two nights at the Flamingo Hotel, four floor shows and two dinners.

Should 80 or more persons sign for such a weekend, the cost would be about $35 less with a charter flight.

If you'd be interested in such a weekend . . . alumni, parents or friends of the college . . . contact the Alumni Office.

Mary Coleman, senior mathematics major from Arlington Heights, Illinois, operates the new 1130 computer. She is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Francis Coleman, 1170 North Beverly, Arlington Heights.

Teaching and Research by Computer

Acquisition of a new $64,000 computer by St. Norbert College promises far-reaching changes in curriculum, teaching and research methods.

The electronic equipment was purchased by the college with the aid of a "matching funds" grant from the National Science Foundation. St. Norbert received $32,000, half of the total cost of the computer and peripheral equipment, "the largest single grant awarded in Wisconsin in 1966 for instructional scientific equipment," noted the Reverend Nicholas Nirschl, O. Praem., assistant professor of mathematics. Fr. Nirschl directed the project to acquire the computer and is overseeing the academic use of it.

Purpose of the IBM 1130 computer is "to improve the science instruction program at St. Norbert College," Father Nirschl said. "One of our objectives is to train our science and engineering graduates so that they can compete effectively both in graduate school programs and in obtaining positions in government-sponsored science programs and industry. Understanding and skills in computer sciences are coming to be expected in these areas."

The 1130 computer will be installed in the $2.8 million science building on the campus scheduled for occupancy in the fall of 1967. A computer center will be set up covering 3,000 square feet and will include, in addition to the computer room itself, a data preparation room, a statistics laboratory, a seminar-library room, programming cubicles, storage area and three offices. The area will be located on the same floor with the mathematics department and science library.

"Eventually, every science and mathematics major will take at least an introductory course in computer programming," Father Nirschl said. Two classes are being taught this term and by fall the college expects classes in computer programming to total several more. More than 20 courses in the fields of chemistry, mathematics, physics and psychology will use computer methods, Father Nirschl pointed out. "As the project progresses and the shift in emphasis is complete, the computer center will become as necessary to the science student as the library reference room is to the non-science student," he added.

The 1130 is also available to students and faculty members who have some programming skill and want to write programs on their own.

Chopin for Youngsters

"The children have been cheated long enough." No, not a field worker in the poverty program speaking. Surprisingly perhaps, it is a musician who makes the statement — Edward Kaizer, concert pianist and assistant professor of music at St. Norbert College.

To him, the poverty is just as real. For a long time the pianist has felt that much more should be done in grade schools in the realm of music appreciation. "Children today have a chance to know so little about music," he contends. "Our music education in grade and high school is so lax that something further needs to be done. Home is the logical place but in these busy days there often isn't time. The result is the kids are so very limited in what they know about good music."

And so Kaizer donned his white tie and tails shortly after breakfast recently and gave a concert just for the children. Third and fourth graders from Southern Door County elementary schools and third, fourth and fifth graders from St. Joseph School, West De Pere, attended the 10:30 a.m. performance in the Hall of Fine Arts on the St. Norbert campus.

"When people go to concerts their children usually can't go — because of the hour they have to stay home. I want to do concerts just for them so they can say, 'Oh, a concert, I know what that is, I went to one.'" He added that this concert was probably the first for most of them.

Kaizer's technique is somewhat similar to the one Leonard Bernstein employs in his young people's television concerts — he explains to his audience what the composer is saying as he goes along.

"Music is a language, just as valid as Shakespeare's, or Shelley's or Byron's — they used words in a pretty marvelous way and young people rightly study them for years. Composers express their ideas through the medium of notes. When we neglect music in education we neglect a whole facet of human existence. Wagner, for instance, was a great philosopher. The ideas expressed in music should be understandable."

"A performer-teacher in the grades would be the ideal thing — someone who would play a composition for the children and then get up and teach them, at least twice a week. It opens up a whole new vista of music appreciation."

Kaizer explained why he used Chopin's music for most of the 45-minute concert. "It's either melodic or fast, and the children have the choice of either watching or listening, or both. And you can usually relate some sort of story to it."

Through mazurkas and etudes he demonstrated different feelings children readily understand — the winter wind, a popular song — and the composer's feelings about war as he expressed them in his Polonaise, writing the music with a bit of Polish earth on his piano.

Kaizer keeps up a running commentary between selections, telling about the composer and why he wrote the particular piece of music.

"If they get tired of just listening they can watch my hands," the young musician noted. He always describes exactly what his left and right hands will be doing in the piece before he begins to play.

Future concerts depend "on the response of parents and teachers. Right now, it's in the experimental stage."

Three St. Norbert College faculty members visited Goddard College in Plainfield, Vt., where they acted as resource consultants for the annual three-day Goddard Educational Issues Conference.

Neil J. Webb, professor of psychology; Thomas W. Phelan, director of the Honors Program; and Frank Wood, director of the Freshman Studies Program attended the conference which was titled "The Challenge of Relevance in Education."
